THE MAGAZINE OF THE HOME COMPUTER CLUB

Two great coin-op offerings from US Gold and Capcom

An all-action flying battle plus the return of the steel-bladed warrior, Strider.

Stand by your joysticks! Have we got some real knuckle-wrenching excitement for you this time! Two – count 'em – two smashing action games that make up one of our best arcade selections ever.

Fly the latest in aerial firepower against the group of ruthless arms dealers trying to exploit international tension for their own dastardly ends and spread terror across the globe. The only thing stopping them is the multinational, peace-keeping force and its three top pilots flying an F-14 Tomcat, a Tigershark, and an A-10 Thunderbolt. So climb into your chosen fighter and get going. With simultaneous two-player capabilities and all the bangs and bombs you could wish for, UN Squadron has to be one of the most exciting missions you have ever flown!

The warrior returns!

Remember Strider 1? It was the action arcade game in which the acrobatic, sword-swirling hero had to battle his way through hordes of enemies? Now Strider's back in an all new bumper sequel that now gives our hero a Gyro Laser gun as well as his trusty sword. Hours of gameplay are there for the taking as you guide Strider over massive playing areas and through the five different levels of fighting.

Set in the future on the planet Magenta, Strider must rescue a female world leader captured by aliens. The mission starts in the forest, continues through the outer defence towers of the planet, into the underground caverns, through the generating station, and into the spacecraft. This time there are no limits, no mercy, and no surrender!

Cerebral challenges and arcade fun

Give your brain a real fun workout with these three games.

Here are three puzzle games that will really get those brain cells pumping! Loopz is all about making loops. Big ones, small ones, and in-between size ones. You've got to juggle several problems at once, such as making sure you have enough room for the pieces, and racing against the clock to make them in time and at the right size.

Emlyn Hughes' Arcade Quiz Game is a quiz game with a difference. It combines animated arcade gameplay with questions and answers. Get the questions right and you'll be on the right path. A wrong answer gets you snarled up in all sorts of obstacles.

Helter Skelter is the bouncing bonanza of amazing addiction. Control a bouncing ball so that it squashes the monsters on the platform. If you hit the wrong one it will multiply, making the job of clearing each screen even harder. Great musical sound effects add to the fun. As a special bonus, this game has a built-in screen designer letting you create your own special screens. Point and click on the right command and in minutes you'll have your own version.

SCHWARZENEGGER

TOTAL RECALL

Based on the greatest Schwarzenegger film of them all!

Five levels and more than 200 screens.

When a film breaks US box office records you can guarantee it's something special. Total Recall was the Schwarzenegger movie that achieved that feat and now it's here in computer format in an ingenious computerised replica.

Superb graphics, cinema-style presentation, and non-stop arcade action give you an interactive movie experience. If you've seen the original Total Recall, you'll recognise the plot. The year is 2084. Earth has survived the Third World War whilst Mars has been colonised and is wracked with political problems. Our hero is Quaid who dreams he is on Mars pursued by killers. Except this is a dream with reality.

Join Quaid on his terrifying adventure over five levels and through 200 screens. On his way he'll collect extra firepower and devices to help him beat the alien forces ranged against him. Along the way he must find and recover certain items such as a mask, briefcase, passport, and extra ammunition.

Digitised screens and sound extracts from the actual movie add to the cinematic atmosphere while back-film scenarios show both game and film sequences running in parallel!

NARC

Join the battle against the hard drug pushers

Stunning graphics with vivid exploding sequences.

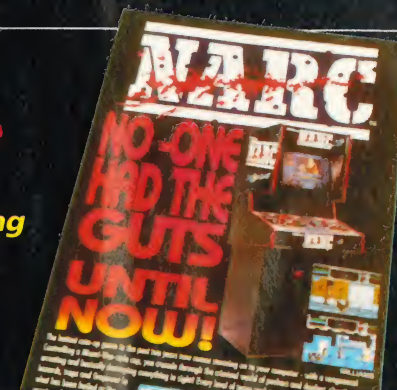

Down in the depraved twilight world of hard drugs are the merciless pushers whose aim is to spread their wares among as many people as possible.

You're the narcotics agent assigned the task of eliminating the gangs and destroying their drug consignments. The stake out begins in the back street ghettos and moves on to old warehouses, private houses, underground railway stations, hotels and restaurants, leading to a confrontation with Mr Big himself at his mansion.

These people play for keeps, so you'll need your missile-firing rocket launcher and machine gun. There are giant flying beetles, savage dogs and an enemy bombing helicopter to confront and defeat.

Keep an eye out for additional missiles that can be collected throughout the game. Throughout the battle various items including drugs, money and bullets are dropped. Pick them up and you'll gain extra bonus points, time and firepower.

Fast animation, large scale sprites, and 11 levels of sideways scrolling action make this an arcade action game to remember.

A pipe dream of a game!

Now your game playing has really gone down the tubes!

Build a network of pipes that can outrun the sludge that starts running through the pipes you've laid. But don't be deceived. Although it is simple, Pipemania is maddeningly addictive. For the pipes come in a whole range of shapes and sizes and are laid down in random order by the computer. You have to try and time things so that the right piece is laid at the right time. One wrong turn and the sludge will catch up with you and end the game.

Start at the basic level, then work your way up into expert mode. Here things get even more hectic as the liquid moves faster and more complex pipe pieces start to appear. There's slow motion practice to help you get the hang of things so that eventually you may be able to work your way through the entire 36 levels, each with their own tantalising variations.
